Cordant Announces Management Reporting, Monitoring and Compliance Solution for Microsoft Office Live Communications Server 2005

3/28/2005 10:25:01 AM

BELLEVUE, Wash., Mar 28, 2005 (BUSINESS WIRE) -- Cordant Inc., a leading provider of solutions for Enterprise Instant Messaging (IM) applications, today announced the release of IMConsole 2005(TM), its solution for Microsoft's enterprise-grade IM and presence awareness platform, Microsoft Office Live Communications Server 2005.

Available immediately, Cordant's IMConsole 2005 (TM) with its Real-time Presence Dashboard will allow organizations to monitor the real-time aggregate usage of IM throughout the organization. Enterprises can use IMConsole 2005 for either compliance requirements or alternatively for operational monitoring of their IM deployments. IMConsole 2005 offers options to either retain or drop message contents while providing a rich set of management reports and statistics about IM usage, users, servers, and auditing activity. Such statistics could be particularly relevant for monitoring Public IM usage throughout the enterprise.

"Microsoft Office Live Communications Server 2005 improves business efficiencies by enabling information workers to find and communicate with people in real time regardless of geography or time zone, via a more secure, enterprise-grade environment," said Marc Sanders, senior product manager, Real-Time Collaboration at Microsoft Corp. "The additional real-time monitoring and management reporting capabilities provided by Cordant's IMConsole 2005 further extend the benefits of Microsoft Office Live Communications Server 2005 in areas that are very important to many of our customers."

"With IMConsole 2005 for Microsoft Office Live Communications Server 2005,
